Cow Palace crew takes noise, finicky stars in stride

By TERRY DAVENPORT
Post Staff Writer

Neil Diamond wanted Perrier water and orange juice.

John Denver asked for vegetarian meals and souvenir T-shirts.

Bill Graham insisted on riding a mock spaceship from the ceiling.

Julie Christie craved solitude.

Catering to the whims of celebrities is an ordinary part of John Root's extraordinary job as general manager of the Cow Palace.

As the name of the 67-acre entertainment center implies, he also worries about the needs of four-footed friends, including 3,000 livestock and 700 horses during the Cow Palace's biggest event every year: the Grand National.

"There's never a dull moment. I love this job," he said as he walked past cages filled with pacing tigers.

The tall, slim man with greying locks probably has survived more calamities during the 15 years he's worked at the Cow Palace than most people encounter in a lifetime.

One sultry night he watched black-jacketed Hell's Angels pummel Evel Knievel's friends after the motorcycle champion had completed a record-breaking jump.

Another time, a bull that was to be in a bloodless bullfight got loose and raced around the main arena filled with spectators.

Root spent one Christmas night trying to repair an electrical cooling system that threatened to melt a huge slab of ice before a hockey game the next day.

And last New Year's Eve he watched in horror as thousands of balloons strung in the rafters for Bill Graham's highly touted party showered down several hours early — on a wrestling crowd.

Root has the best possible qualification for his coping with the constant tribulations of his job: a good sense of humor.

He first began watching the strange goings-on at the Cow Palace as a part-time cashier in the parking lot while he was attending college.

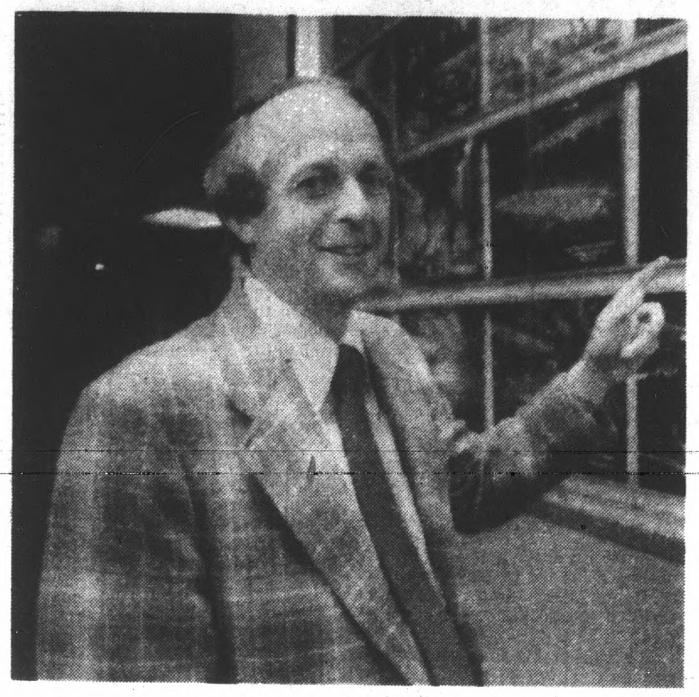
Swiftly hooked on show biz, he became assistant manager of rentals and operations in 1969 and was promoted to his present job three years ago.

As general manager, he reports to a nine-person board of directors appointed by Governor Brown and supervises 43 full-time employees.

Since the Cow Palace is owned by the state, all of his employees are civil servants.

Root admits that some rock and roll stars balk at the idea of appearing in a building named after an ungainly animal. But the Cow Palace was aptly named when it opened in 1941.

It was built in the 1930s as a WPA project for agricultural leaders from San Mateo and San Francisco counties who wanted a place to exhibit and auction their animals.



ARMED WITH A SMILE

John Root's good sense of humor is the only armor he wears into battle with Cow Palace clients ranging from rock stars to Jehovah's Witnesses.

THE POST

Vol. 33, No. 21 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING Wednesday, May 30, 1979

The primary purpose of the Cow Palace was and still is to house the Grand National and Junior Grand National each year — two of the biggest livestock exhibitions in the West.

The Cow Palace reputedly got its name from a newspaper reporter who scoffed, after seeing the construction, "They're building a palace for cows."

The state eventually decided that the huge arena and exhibit halls could be put to better use and, beginning in the 1950s, allowed the facilities to be rented out.

"It's turned into a real moneymaker," Root explained. Last year, the Cow Palace was host to 38 different types of events and its arena was used 122 days.

The state now expects the facility to pay most of its own way. It hasn't increased the $250,000 annual subsidy it gives the Cow Palace since 1958 and, when the complex lost two buildings in 1970 in a fire, the state made the Cow Palace pay the $300,000 loss.

Just about anyone can rent the Cow Palace who is willing to shell out $1,500 per night or 10 percent of

PLEASED AS PUNCH

Srock appeals stay denial

Stephan Srock, the Daly City police officer who has sued Daly City, its Police Department and several city officials, has appealed a ruling that he should submit to a dismissal hearing.

Acting on Srock's behalf, attorney Charles Garry filed a writ of prohibition last week in San Francisco in which he asks the state Court of Appeals to prevent Daly City officials from holding the hearing.

Earlier last week, San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn refused to grant Srock a preliminary injunction that he sought to block the hearing.

Cohn noted at the time that Srock had the right to appeal his ruling.

Albert Polonsky, Daly City's city attorney, said Tuesday that the city has not yet scheduled Srock's dismissal hearing.

Srock has been suspended with pay since March 15 for alleged misconduct during a routine traffic stop on Feb. 3.

In his lawsuit, Srock charges that city officials plotted to prevent him from having a fair dismissal hearing.

He filed the suit against the city, the Police Department, City Manager David Rowe, Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger, and three employees in the Police Department: Chief David Hansen, Lt. James Doran and Capt. Roger Austin.

Austin has hired his own attorney; the other defendants are being represented by Polonsky.

At the judge's suggestion, the Daly City City Council has agreed to hire someone not employed by the city to officiate at the dismissal hearing.

Cohn set May 31 as the date for a hearing on two demurrers that Daly City and Austin filed against Srock last week. The hearing will be held at 9 a.m. in the Hall of Justice in Redwood City.

Mayor asks summer jobs for young people

Daly City Mayor Victor Kyriakis is asking local businesses to provide jobs for young people this summer as part of the city's Summer Youth Program.

He anticipates that 400 Daly City youths will register in the program this summer, seeking part- or full-time work.

Kyriakis invites businesses that can offer youths jobs to contact Michael Orlick, supervisor of the Work Experience Education Program at 375 S. Mayfair Ave., Room 214, Daly City 94015, telephone: 755-3920; or Diego Proano or Wanda Nalls at the Community Service Center, 6794 Mission St., Daly City 94014, telephone: 992-2567.

Catholic Women install June 3

The Westlake Catholic Women of Our Lady of Mercy parish will have their annual installation breakfast June 3 at the Olympic Club. Chairing the event will be Mrs. Robert Drucker.

New officers to be installed are Mmes. John Hughes, president; Robert Drucker, vice president; Joseph Potter, first director; Harry Quinn, second director; Sheldon Lendall, third director; Lawrence Minnix, fourth director; Marc Hinchman, recording secretary; Steven England, corresponding secretary; James McKee, treasurer; Elwin Short, ACCW; Kent Robinson, publicity; and William Holden, historian.

Westlake covenants renewed

Covenants and restrictions governing the appearance of 169 homes in Westlake subdivision 6-D in Daly City were automatically renewed for 10 years Friday without a whimper from any of the affected residents.

The homeowners could have requested an election in an attempt to have the regulations lifted. But Judy Amos of the Westlake Subdivision Improvement Association said no one asked for the rules to be put to a vote by the May 25 deadline.

"I guess everybody must be very satisfied," she said.

Opponents of the convenants and restrictions attempted to have the restrictions lifted by calling for elections in subdivisions 6-A and 6-B. However, they were outvoted in both elections by residents favoring the regulations.

gate receipts, plus staffing, security and clean-up expenses ranging anywhere from $2,000 to $14,000.

Upcoming events include a Village People rock concert June 10, two San Francisco high school graduations, Rod Stewart in concert June 15-17, an environmental fair June 22-24, a Jehovah's Witnesses convention for three weeks in July, the Ringling Brothers Circus over Labor Day weekend and a tractor tug-of-war in September.

The Cow Palace has been the site of such varied events as a "positive awareness" seminar, the second largest dog show in the country, roller derbies, a skateboard tournament, the Dickens Christmas Faire and Intel's 10th anniversary party.

Root acted embarrassed when he was asked to describe one of the Cow Palace's most unusual events: the Hooker's Ball last October.

"It was really something, really something," was all he would say.

Frantic as that evening was, he said it did not surpass the Beatles' last U.S. concert, at the Cow Palace in August 1965.

"All those young girls screaming. I've never heard a greater volume of noise," he said.

Before the Beatles left, Root said they destroyed their dressing room.

History of a different kind was made at the Cow Palace in 1956 and 1964, when Eisenhower and Goldwater were nominated as Presidential candidates at Republican conventions there.

And in November 1960, a young Presidential nominee named John F. Kennedy first outlined his plan to begin the Peace Corps to 22,000 Democrats gathered in the main arena.

News stories written about those events reported that they occurred in San Francisco.

San Mateo County residents argue that the Cow Palace is in Daly City.

Actually, Root said, it's in both. (One parking lot extends into San Francisco.)

He admitted that the Cow Palace prefers using the better-known city. "But any sales tax made here is credited to San Mateo County," he said.

The reason big-name celebrities swallow their pride about the Cow Palace's bovine name is that it can pack in a bigger audience than any other hall in the West except the Anaheim Convention Center.

Multiply its 14,706 seats by up to $20 per ticket prices and you're starting to think like a sweet-talking promoter.

Root has dealt with all kinds of promoters. He prefers working with well-established ones like Jerry Weintraub, who promotes the Bee Gees, John Denver, and other stars.

Root demands cash up front of the lesser-known wheeler-dealers.

The promoters arrange tickets sales and props for their clients' acts. The only events that Root oversees completely are the Grand National and Junior Grand National.

That's no small task. Last year the Grand National had 650 exhibitors and 135,000 to 140,000 attendees.

Root leaves the finicky arrangements to his right-hand man, Dana Lewis, rentals and operations manager.

One of Lewis' jobs is to spruce up the dressing rooms for incoming acts. The bigwigs accompanying the Shriner's Circus rated metal cots and a tired-looking shag rug.

Lewis peeled back the carpet to reveal a mint green plush carpet reserved for the big name stars. Before they arrive, he also switches the furniture.

Supplying specific furnishings, meals, airport limousines, and other technical details are specified carefully in riders attached to the contracts the stars sign with the Cow Palace.

Root and Lewis fulfill these wishes as closely as possible so the celebrities will come back again.

Their success at attracting the big names again and again is evident in their high number of repe t bookings.

It is illustrated graphically on the walls of the box office, where hundreds of entertainers have signed their autographs at Box Office Manager Georgia Christensen's request.

Elvis...James Caan...Gene Kelly...Kim Novak...Bing Crosby...Bill Cosby...Tom Jones...Joan Baez...they all have been there.

So have the greats of the sports world, including Rocky Marciano and Jean-Claude Killy.

"It's an interesting business," said Root. "One day, you're talking to a wrestling manager, the next day a concert promoter, and on another day, Margo St. James. I wouldn't trade jobs with anyone."

South Tahoe beckons club

The Men's Club of Congregation B'nai Israel will have a South Lake Tahoe and Reno overnight trip June 10 and 11.

The bus will depart June 10 at 8 a.m. from 22nd and Ocean Avenue, San Francisco. Coffee and doughnuts will be served before the bus departs, and ice and mixers enroute, plus prizes for winners of games.

Cost is $34 per person, double occupancy.

For further information call Ina Hoffman, 992-4241, Miriam Lemesh, 992-1058 or Sam Morris, 583-7914.

Groups place debris boxes

The Clean Community Committee of Daly City and the Daly City Scavenger Co. will provide a debris box in the 400 block of San Diego Avenue in Daly City on June 2 and 3.

The committee encourage residents in the area to deposit their weeds and garden cuttings in the box during daylight hours.

Prom, awards end year at Westmoor

By STEVE KAUFMAN

Congratulations are in order at Westmoor High School for two of the most important events of the school year last week — the Prom and the Awards Assembly.

The prom last Friday was nothing short of success. Over 400 Westmoor guys and girls gathered at the beautiful four-story Galleria for three hours of dancing and music. The girls received a memento book and an engraved glass when they entered the huge glass double doors and the guys received an engraved mug as a reminder of this very special night.

Thanks to Marisa Matteucci, the Senior Class President for all of her hard work and efforts. Her many trips downtown to the Galleria really helped to insure the success of this most special evening. Also, thanks to all the various pro committees for their hard work organizing this event.

The Indian

By LINDA LEE

Jefferson High School's gymnastic team went to the finals May 12 at Serramonte High and did exceedingly well. Results were: Novice, first place; junior varsity first place; and varsity third place.

Jeff's Filipino Club had a "Filipniana Night" recently starting with guests speakers Justo Robles, bilingual coordinator, and Principal Richard Burt.

A choir of Jeff students sang Filipino songs. The second half of the entertainment consisted of 14 folk dances, followed by two modern dances to "Love and Desire" and "Souvenirs."

Congratulations to the badminton team of 1979 for winning its seventh consecutive NPL championship.

The Badminton brackets A and B played in the NPL finals at Terra Nova. In singles, Shari Dilley placed second and had defeated the champ in the first round. The Jefferson A and B doubles teams played each other in the winners championship bracket. The doubles were Cathy Ryan, Monette Lipat, Diane Saunders and Tani Empleo.

These champs also competed at CCS in Saratoga last Friday and Saturday.

St. Andrew's has party Saturday

St. Andrews Community Church will present its annual "Polynesian Night" on June 2 at the church center, Sullivan Street and Southgate Avenue, in Daly City.

This year's dinner-dance and floor show will benefit the Tim Cassidy Memorial Fund, to go toward purchase of clarion bells for the community. No-host cocktails are at 7 p.m., with dancing til 1 a.m. Reservations chairman is Barbara Bruno, 756-3223.

Split entrees new feature at Vince's

Ever face such a difficult choice between a couple of favorite entrees on a menu that you wished you could have some of each? Well, in response to popular demand, VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant will split entrees for only $1 extra, making it easier to enjoy more of their specialties. . . . L'AUBERGE in Atherton Redwood City has one of the most charming private banquets around. Eddie Woodford, their London-born maitre d', will plan your menu to your specifications and suggest the ideal wines, too . . . With such a beautiful scenic area as the coastside so near to the Peninsula area and easy to reach, via Highways 380 and 92, a weekend holiday can be enjoyed even with gasoline limitations. One of the most popular destinations for many will be Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, where NICK'S restaurant/lounge will welcome guests for breakfast, lunch and dinner. The GUST family (NICK, LORRAINE and son CHUCK) and all hands at the restaurant will make every effort to make your visit most enjoyable. . . . When it's good hearty German and continental food home made from scratch with the freshest of ingredients and served generously, TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT in Moss Beach is only a short scenic ride from most anywhere on the Peninsula.

CULINARY EXPERTISE

A couple of pretty reasons why John & Kathy's restaurant and pub in South San Francisco is so popular are Owner Kathy Wimsatt (left) and her daughter Charlotte. All the home cooking is by Kathy, who is justly famous for her fabulous pies and other desserts.

Lehr's Bocce star WW II entertainer

One person who was front row center when Mickey Rooney opened in "Sugar Babies" at the Curran Theater was MARIO PIERONI, who presents the operatic entertainment at Lehr's Bocce Opera Room in LEHR'S GREENHOUSE, San Francisco. During WWII, Mario, Mickey and baritone Bob Priester entertained the front line troops in Europe and performed for Truman, Churchill and Stalin at the Potsdam Conference ... At LA BELLA PASTA in Foster City (in Edgewater Place Shopping Center, on the boardwalk overlooking the lagoon) Owner SALVATORE FAVA insists on only the freshest of ingredients for his exclusive recipes featuring specialties from all regions of Italy. He even grinds the dry cheeses used for seasoning, such as Parmesan, Romano and Provalone ... Newest rage in Burlingame amongst lovers of steam clams and other seafood specialties is the new food service at LES JON'S Clam House in the intimate Les Jon's bar and restaurant adjacent to the Hyatt Cinema. Owners BOB CELLITTI, STAN PANDOLFI and JON MILLER invite you to drop by anytime from 12 noon to midnight and enjoy the new food operation, which is run by the people who also run the famed old landmark Clam House in San Francisco. Great idea for after-the-theater suppers.

Scotty Campbell's new pianobar artist

Flash from JIM SNIADECKI, dapper owner of SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S in Redwood City: ALAN DOTE is the talented pianobar entertainer now playing the contemporary sounds for guests in the lounge Wednesday through Saturday evenings ... More and more celebrities are requesting the plush new V.I.P. Room when making dinner reservationns at PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the S.F. Hilton Tower. Among famous people dining in the V.I.P. Room the other night was Adolph Schuman, who hosted a gourmet dinner party honoring Senator Alan Cranston ... ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB is a best bet for pre-theater dinner if you're planning to catch Mickey Rooney in "Sugar Babies" at the Curran or one of the A.C.T. presentations at the Geary. Rosebud's is right across the street on Geary; the food in outstanding, prices modest and service is always swift and attentive ... ENRICO J. ROMANO, owner/ host of ROMANO'S Italian and seafood restaurant in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, will be selected as "Citizen of the Day" on KABL-radio May 30 for his "Outstanding contribution to the welfare of the community with 20 years of service" ... A Fruit Margarita with your choice of strawberry, peach, banana or pineapple is one of several interesting cocktails served at LA PINATA in Burlingame.

Lake Tahoe only "Tankful Away"

An announcement by the South Tahoe Chamber of Commerce regarding assurances of availability of gasoline for visitors on weekends as well as at other times has done much to alleviate concern on the part of those who feel entitled to respite from workaday worries by relaxing at South Lake Tahoe. And BARNEY'S and companion club/casino SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET at Stateline are also doing everything possible to make your visit enjoyable. Free $5-value-gaming-and-cash coupons are available at any of 14 restaurant stops along the way, via Highways 80 and 50, from Vallejo onward, as well as at several places right here on the Peninsula

The Gamesman

Encyclopedia explains every kind of game

By RICHARD C. MOON

If you are an avid game player, you probably are interested in a good reference book. Something that will give the rules and layouts for all sorts of games.

We all want to play "according to Hoyle," so most reference books bear Hoyle's name. The problem is that Edmond Hoyle never saw, played or even heard of the vast majority of games on which he is considered to be the last word. Poker wasn't even invented until Hoyle had been dead about 50 years, and our modern games, such as Monopoly, didn't show up until he had been gone some 200 years.

That is not to say that there are not a lot of good "Hoyle" books around. There are. But there are some other works that are worthy of attention.

My idea of the most complete work on games is "Scane's Encyclopedia of Games" by John Searne, published by Harper and Row.

This encyclopedia covers just about every game you can think of. More than 1,000 games and their variations are described, together with the latest rules. The book is 600 oversize pages and would complete any game library.

John Scarne is recognized as the world's foremost authority on games of chance and skill. His fame dates from World War II, when he acted as gambling advisor to the U. S. armed forces. During the war, he gave hundreds of lectures on gambling before thousands of servicemen to show them how to avoid being cheated by crooked gamblers.

He also was called into consultation as an expert on games and gambling by the U.S. Senate, the FBI, British Home Office, the Puerte Rican and Panama governments, and hotel agencies throughout the world.

He certainly qualifies as an expert.

Over half the book is devoted to card games. Poker, Bridge, Rummy, Canasta, Pinochle, and some you probably never heard of, from the most simple to the most complicated.

Dice, Checkers, Chess, Dominoes, Backgammon, Parchessi — all are included. Harper and Row isn't kidding when they claim this book is a complete encyclopedia of games.

There is even a chapter on cheating.

Scarne is a fascinating man. He has invented more than 100 games and even founded his own game company. A few of his better known games are Teeke, Follow the Arrow, Scarne Solitaire, Scarney Gin, and one called just Scarney.

Edmond Hoyle passed away in 1769. He left us with a rich legacy of games and game rules. I think he would have been proud to see his title of "the expert" pass to John Scarne.

VELMA YULE MEMORIAL

Adrienne Savetnick, left, librarian of the Westlake Library in Daly City, receives a lead crystal bowl and base as a memorial to the late Velma Yule, long-time secretary to the library. The floral arrangement was by members of the Daly City Garden Club. Presented to the Serramonte Library in her memory were two books, "Medicines From the Earth, A Guide to Healing Plants," and a bicentennial commemorative cook book from her native Butte, Mont.

Gas crisis can be hard on pet

During the current gas crunch most of us are keeping a close eye on our gas gauge. Don't forget to keep an eye on your pet as well, for they may become a victim of the gas crisis, according to the Peninsula Humane Society. How can shrinking fuel reserves and rising gas costs affect pets? Consider what happens when a pet is lost.

The responsible pet owner will make every effort to find a lost pooch or cat, including driving through the neighborhood, visiting local animal shelters, and posting lost notices. Searching for a lost pet can be a gas-consuming business and many people left with only gas fumes in their tank may find that they have no transportation to search for a lost pet.

The Humane Society advises all pet owners to license their dogs and register their cats and make sure these easily-traceable identification tags are placed on their pets. If a dog is wearing its license or a cat its voluntary registration tag, and the animal is picked up by a local animal control officer or even by a neighbor, it can be reunited with its owner.

With the passage of Proposition 13, there's only one outlet left in the county for dog licenses, the county tax collector's office in Redwood City. But licenses may be obtained by writing that office, at the County Government Center, Redwood City 94063, or calling 364-5600, ext. 2671.

Cat registration tags may be obtained at the Humane Society Shelter or by writing the Society at 12 Airport Blvd., San Mateo 94401, or calling 344-7643, ext. 223.

Fees are $6 for neutered animals of either sex, $12 for non-neutered.

B'nai Israel sets Friday for Shavuot

The Shavuot Festival, the Feast of Weeks, so named because it occurs seven weeks after Passover, will be ushered in Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

This Jewish Holiday commemorates the anniversary of the giving of the Torah to Moses on Mount Sinai, and is also called the "Festival of First Fruits," (in the harvest in Israel).

On this holiday in ancient times, the Jewish people made a pilgrimage to the Temple in Jerusalem, bringing offerings of their first fruits. Today, this is recalled symbolically in the Synagogue when Jews bring baskets of fruit to the Shavuot Festival.

Services will be led by Rabbi Malcolm Cohen, assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal, who will chant the liturgy.

JUHSD trustees explain Prop. 13 cuts

By GENNY HOM
Commissioner of Outside Publicity

High school students from throughout the district participated in a journalism clss-sponsored press conference recently at Serramonte High.

The press conference, entitled "The Effects of Proposition 13 and Declining Enrollment on Our School District," was the first ever of its kind in district history.

The purpose of the student press conference was to provide a free exchange of ideas and dialogue between student journalists and members of the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees.

James Roman, board president, and Trustee Ruth Boudinot were guests of the conference.

Proposition 13 and declining enrollment has indeed greatly affected our schools.

Cuts have been made with the dismissal of nurses, club advisors, and, recently, 19 teachers.

Transportation may be affected in the list ofpossible budget cuts. Students might have to find their own way to school, perhaps on public transportation systems, using special rates. The student will have to pay for this.

When asked about the possibility of making cuts at the top, i.e. the administrators, rather than student activities, Roman replied that he and Mrs.Boudinot were at the top. "We're operating on a bare-bones budget. We're at the top and there isn't a whole lot to cut there. Now, we've got to look down and there's Superintendent Floyd Gonella next. We've got to pay him enough money so he won't go out looking for another job. That's the way most managers get paid. If he's doing a good job, he gets enough, if he's not doing a good job, he gets fired. Obviously, this board is very pleased with the job Dr. Gonella has done thus far. We want to keep him here."

Continuing, Roman went down to the assistant suprintendents. The Jefferson district has two assistant suprintendents, Dr. Gross and Dr. Riggs. Roman said, "Two assistant superintendents is a very small number for a district this size. A lot of other districts have four or five doing the job our two assistant superintendents do. As a matter of fact, we have two assistant superintendents, down from three we had last year. So we've already cut at that level. Moving on down a step below are the principals. Each high school needs a principal. What I'm trying to say is that the way we perceive the top, we don't see a lot of fat there."

He added, "The bulk of the money we spend comes at the school level. The clerical staff, maintenance people, lighting bills, water bills, gasoline for the buses, and bus drivers all have to be paid. When I say a lot, I mean 90 percent of the money we have to spend exists at that level where kids can go out and touch it every day on a daily basis. It's very reasonable that the kids would see the cuts that are made very readily, because they're in contact with it all the time. but that's where the money is. We put it there in the first place. When we have to cut it out, people will know we're cutting it out."

As for sports and clubs for next year, that is still up in the air. So far, club advisors have been cut and aclub can exist only if someone volunters to advise it. Mrs. Boudinot felt that some clubs are educational, but the funds had to be cut somewhere. If the district gets enough money from the state, then clubs might be put back.

When asked why student opinion was taken before these cuts were made, Roman replied that he didn't feel clubs were an essential and neccesary part of the learning process.

One student asked when the board anticipated a school closure because of declining enrollment and short funds. The answer to this question was perhaps in September of 1981.

Times are changing, and so are schools. As Roman put it, "Unfortunately, we don't have as much money as we'd like to have. Education is changing. Th school district next year is not going to be the same as it was this year. It's going to be different. Different doesn't necessarily mean worse. I would hope we could do our jobs harder so that we could do a better job with less. And that's a challenge."

I would like to remind all of you that the board meetings are open to the public. If you don't like something that is happening, by all means go to the board meetings and voice your opinion.

Serramonte's chapter of the California Junior Statesmen Foundation will sponsor a forum on the closing of a school in our district. Various community groups, the Board of Trustees, the teachers' union, students and other individuals have been invited.

The forum will be Thursday in the faculty room at Serramonte High at 7:30 p.m. For more information, contact Mr. Goldberg, Maria Bautista, or Junior State members.

SHHA installs Friday

The Southern Hills Homeowners Association will have a dinner and dance to honor and install the new set of officers for 1979, at the Italian American Social Club, 25 Russia St., San Francisco, June 1.

It starts with no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30. Dancing will be from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Alligator grows big, mean

By D.R. BARNETT, DVM

QUESTION: A neighbor gave us a baby alligator when he moved away about a year ago. It belonged to their son and they couldn't take it with then. We thought it would be a good pet for our youngsters. Unfortunately, this little critter seems to get meaner as it grows older. We were told that if you keep alligators in seclusion they become tame. Not so. He's almost a foot-and-one-half long and you don't hand feed him. I think we ought to get rid of him, but I don't know where to take him. What's your suggestion? N.K.

ANSWER: Contact your nearest zoo and see if they can help you with this problem. This is an excellent example of why non-domestic animals should not be kept as pets.

Q: Can a dog live on a vegetable diet —or strictly a meat diet? H.P.

A: Dogs can live on either a strictly vegetable diet or meat diet, but often these diets are not healthy. Since they are basically meat-eating animals, they will be healthier and happier on a diet containing more meat, but ideally the diet should contain both animal protein and plant protein, usually cereals. Most good quality commercial dog foods contain both types of protein, and they usually are the easiest and most economical way of feeding a dog.

Q: I have two female Boston terriers, one and two years old. The younger one is deaf and is a problem because she continually barks. I've had her for 10 months, but it is only in the past three months that the barking has increased. My neighbors tell me they never hear her, so the barking is not too loud, but it disturbs me. I don't like to spank her because I feel sorry about her deafness. She has a sweet disposition and gets along well with the other dog who is spayed. The deaf one is not. I'm afraid that spaying might be dangerous because of her size. Would spaying be advisable? Do you have a solution to her barking? F.M.

A: Spaying is always advisable for pet population control and always should be done unless there are overwhelming medical problems to discourage the surgery or the dog is a valuable breeding animal. In your dog's case, spaying might be helpful to control her barking, which probably is due to nervousness and her deafness. Having vocal cords surgically removed perhaps should be considered. Tranquilizers might be helpful for occasional use but can't be used over very long periods.

'Big Three' winner to have his day at the park

Le Pacini

Marino "Chic" Pieretti, the old Washington Senator out of North Beach of whom much has been written in the past year or so, will be honored with a "Marino Pieretti Day" at Candlestick Park June 16.

The popular paisan, whose winning bout with "The Big Three," as he calls it, of heart disease, diabetes, and cancer has been so well chronicled, undoubtedly will be greeting guests that day in the park's 49er press room with the same enthusiasm with which he used to knock down Joe Dimaggio, his buddy.

For $10 you'll be able to honor and meet Pieretti, have a meal in the Stadium Club and see the Giants play the Cardinals.

But don't wait. The 150 reserved tickets are being sold on a first-come-first-served basis, and the presence of the popular Pieretti certainly will sell the day out soon.

Frank Strazzullo, who has made the arrangements despite a frantic schedule because of his candidacy for the presidency of the Westmoor PTA, says that he may be reached for ticket reservations at 589-4413 during the day, and at 756-3198 evenings.

Tickets also may be reserved through Harpo Hansen, the former Seals catcher at the Miraloma Club, 749 Portola Drive, San Francisco, 681-0769; or Dante Benedetti's New Pisa restaurant, 550 Green St., San Francisco, 362-4726.

Johnny Lemaster may now be, albeit in a perhaps convoluted way, the key player in the Giants' future.

Here is the reasoning that produces the "fact":

If one were to assess the Giants' biggest need and their most questionable positions, it would seem logical that it would be a power hitter in the former case and center field and shortstop in the latter.

They perhaps could solve the problem of the power hitter with some of their excess pitching (keeping in mind that no team ever has too much pitching) and simultaneously solve the center field problem by moving Jack Clark over there and putting the power hitter in right or left field, shifting Terry Whitfield to right, if necessary. A trade directly for a power-hitting centerfielder, a very rare breed, indeed could strip the Giants' pitching staff, even if a team were willing to trade away, say, a Fred Lynn, which isn't at all likely.

To trade for a shortstop, too, however, certainly would strip the pitching staff. In other words, the Giants just couldn't afford to trade for two such valuable commodities as a shortstop and a power hitter without weakening themselves to the point where a shortstop and an extra power hitter wouldn't make any difference anymore.

But, if Lemaster comes through, they then could afford to go all out to plug just one hole — the extra power hitter.

Contemporary trivia: Until the Giants beat Atlanta there May 20, and Oakland beat Milwaukee here on the same day, Bay Area baseball fans had not seen or heard of a Sunday win, because the A's had also not won on a Sunday to that point.

Either Round Table Pizza is pulling Jack Clark's leg, or their copywriter is the kind of a guy who, when he was a Boy Scout, could get lost in an empty lot.

I refer to that commercial in which Clark and Willie McCovey, plugging Round Table Pizza's contest in which fans predict the Giants' batting averages, engage in snappy put-down banter.

At one point Clark, predicting he'll be hitting .400 by June, refers to his .306 batting average last year in his first full big league season. But then McCovery reminds Clark that one "Vern Laskow" also once hit over .300 in his rookie year, and that nobody ever heard of him again. Clark asks McCovey if there really was a Vern Laskow, and McCovey replies, "Lots of them, Jack, lots of them."

But that copy-writer has made a liar of poor Willie, because there really never has been even one Vern Laskow. At least in no record book I've found, looking under the spelling of "Laskow" and every other imaginable variation of that sound.

So here's hoping that Clark's confidence hasn't been shattered by a commercial, and that McCovey's enunciation is good.

Meanwhile, there's probably a Round Table Pizza copywriter sitting somewhere in Marin blithly writing up a leash law for the local Wolfman.

While it was commendable of Ron Guidry to volunteer to go to the Yankee bullpen when relief ace Goose Gossage went out with a broken finger, it was an action remarkable only because of Guidry's attitude. It certainly had nothing to do with physical bravery, as was indicated by an eastern press that had Guidry laying his career on the line.

Before the 1970s ushered in the era of the prima donna, it wasn't all that unusual for starting pitchers occasionally to relieve between starts, or to go to the bullpen on a regular basis in similar emergencies.

Graig Nettles had remarked facetiously, of the Yankee heirarchy, "Who knows what they'll do with him next — maybe designated runner."

Well, what would be wrong with that? Guidry may be the fastest runner on the Yankee team. Whatever happened to the notion that pitchers are ballplayers, just like the rest of the guys on the roster? I'm really surprised that Guidry didn't somehow end up in the Dresden Exhibit.

Frankly, I'm a little bit tired of big, athletic studs being treated like fine wines. They can't be bruised, they can't go the full nine, they need a rest in the second game of a double header . . . phooey.

Whatever happened to guys like Tom Seats, the Seals' southpaw of the 40s? I remember once, during the war years, when Seats came off the graveyard shift at the shipyards to toss shutouts in both ends of a doubleheader at Seals Stadium. And didn't miss his next turn, and pitched for years after that, with no ill effects.

It's come to my attention that Don Klein, the fine, long-time Bay Area sportscaster and play-by-play man, has taken offense at my remark that sportscasters as a class don't know a helluva lot.

This is all very ironic. To begin with, I clearly directed my remarks strictly at TV sportscasters — they of the three — minute genius — and not to radio men, of which Klein is one. And if I were pressed to name the two or three men I most respect in the "electronic" media, Klein certainly would be one of them.

Fifteen County thins make State trackfest

By TIM MENICUTCH

SAN JOSE — Whether he's jumping fire hydrants or hurdles, Aragon High's Jim Walker is obviously a natural at the hurdle events in track.

Walker headed an impressive list of County athletes (15 in 14 different individual events) who qualified for next Saturday's state track meet at Sacramento on a lovely spring sevening Friday in the Central Coast Section finals at San Jose City College.

Walker hung on by a toe to capture the 330 low hurdles in 37.85 and just missed in the 120-yard high hurdles, losing to Eric McPherson of Mt. Pleasant by 1/10 of a second (in 14.66).

In the low hurdles, Walker was all out to hold off the late charge of Terry Smith from Cubberly, but explains his late-race collapse.

"Late in the race I got tired and started losing my rhythm," said Walker. "But I jammed out of the blocks and got a real good start. I used my kick on the final turn. I sling-shotted out of that turn, and that's when I hit my best stride.

The highlight of the entire meet might have been incomparable Greg Ellis of Menlo-Atherton for his pole vault show. Ellis cleared a lifetime best and CCS record 15-6. He defeated Mike Kenison of Mills, who also registered a lifetime best of 15-0. Ellis failed on his tries at 15-9, but realizes he will probably need at least that height to be in the running for state honors.

While Ellis was airborne, South City sprinter Carl Montgomery was making like the wind. Montgomery, only a junior, settled for more than a second behind bionic-legged Bill Green of Cubberly in the 100 (9.56 to 9.87), but predicted a win in the 220, and followed through with a victory.

"I felt I was going to win the 220 tonight," said Montgomery. "But I didn't think I would win it that easy. It wasn't the quickest race I've ever run, but I think it was definitely one of the best, and I couldn't have picked a better time to do it.

"I spotted Harris (Tony Harris of Independence) coming hard out of the corner of my eye," said Montgomery, "so I just stepped it up. I knew I could beat Harris because last time he beat me I had a real bad blister on my foot. Besides, the 220 is my strongest event. I'm better at the 220 than the 100 because it takes me a while to get my speed up.

"I think I have a good shot at beating those guys from down south in the state meet," said Montgomery. "Most of them have been running on all-weather tracks all season, and the state meet's on dirt. I've been running on dirt all year in the North Peninsula League.

Montgomery expected no better than a second against the likes of Green in the 100, but seemed pleased with his second-place finish.

"My start felt pretty good," said Montgomery. "I think I was second out of the blocks. I was right with him (Green) for the first 50 yards, just about stride for stride.

"I was pretty fluid today. It was a good race, but I think I can run faster. Green's definitely the toughest guy I've run against all year.

"I was nervous in warm-ups for awhile," said Montgomery, "But then I realized that the race was between Bill (Green) and me and ALL I had to do was stay with him. He just plain outran me in the last 50 yards.

Another junior, Adam Haysbert of San Mateo, fired up for his best-ever long jump, 23-0½, but it was good enough for only second place behind spring-loaded Steve Bruce of M-A.

Going into the meet, Carlmont's Tim Thompson owned the best triple jump mark in the CCS, and when the frog-legged senior uncorked for 48-0 on his first attempt, many observers considered the event to be over.

But instead of discouraging Myron Porter of Willow Glen, all it did was fire him up. Porter flew 48-8½, so Thompson had to settle for second place.

Gutsy performance of the night award has to be shared by Carlmont hurdler Jimmy Swain and girls standout Vanessa Woods of Jefferson.

Woods, competing with a badly-pulled leg muscle, captured the 220 and was second in the 440.

"I pulled a muscle in my behind last week," said Woods. "When I hit the last turn I had to come down on the inside, and that's when it started bothering me in the race, so I had to drag it in. I guess I'll just stay off it for the next week and hope it gets better. What a time to get hurt," moaned Woods, "right before the state meet.

"I get kind of scared when I look at the times I'll be going against in the state," said Woods. "But if my leg gets better I can stay with anyone in the 220. I'm able to keep my kick throughout the entire race.

"Before this season, I never figured I could go a quarter," said Woods. "I had never broken 60 seconds before this year. But I can pace myself for an entire race."

Swain, also running with a painful leg muscle strain, got third in the high hurdles and then opened a long lead in the second heat of the low hurdles before disaster struck. Swain clipped the second-to-last hurdle and went sprawling to the turf. The incident obviously caused Swain additional pain, but he still anchored Carlmont's mile relay team.

Mesha Spivey of Woodside, a favorite, took the high jump at 6-10. Menlo-Atherton's Trish King won a protracted girls' high jump competition in a jumpoff after tying at 5-6 during regular competition. She went 5-7¼ in the jumpoff to win.

Other state meet qualifiers include: Jim Hudson of Mills (third in the 880 at 1:56.1), Art Nicholson of M-A (second to Green in the 440 at 47.74 and second to Montgomery in the 220 at 21.81); Kevin O'Connor of Carlmont (third in the two-mile at 9:15.1); Rhonda Robinson of San Carlos (third in the girls' 100 at 11:29); Jodie Barker of Sequoia (second in the girls' shot at 44-4); Carlmont's girls' 440 relay team (second in 49.44) and two girls' mile relay teams (Carlmont won in a meet record 3:55.96 and Sequoia was second in 4:00.0).

Menlo-Atherton finished second overall in boys' scoring with 42, 10 points behind Green-led Cubberly. Carlmont was fifth with 26 points. Carlmont's girls finished in a tie for fourth with Andrew Hill at 26 points.

Among the local frosh-soph stars was Paul Pickett of San Mateo, who won the 330 low hurdles in 38.87.

El Camino wins CCS baseball title

By PAUL SALVONI

A young man who doesn't even attend either high school had a lot to say about who won Friday night's baseball game between El Camino and Burlingame high schools at Washington Park.

Roger Ruzek, El Camino's ace right-hander, had pitched seven strong innings in the Colts' 2-0 victory over St. Francis of Mountain View Wednesday. That win lifted the Colts into Friday night's contest against Burlingame — a contest that would decide the Central Coast Section Region I championship.

So the big question was who Colt Coach Lou Zuardo would call upon to pitch Friday night — and whether the pitcher he selected could stop a team that had won five straight games

Zuardo made a risky decision. He decided to go with a freshman: Andy Leonard.

Leonard, 15, isn't even a student at El Camino. El Camino consists of only the 10th, 11th and 12th grade levels. Leonard is a ninth-grade student at Alta Loma Junior High — which, fortunately for Zuardo and his team, is located in El Camino's district. Since Alta Loma doesn t have a ninth-grade baseball team this year, Leonard is allowed to compete for El Camino.

Leonard didn't exactly shut Burlingame down, but he did get the job done, going five and one-third strong innings before getting relief help from "Iron Man" Ruzek. The Colts simply out-hit and out-pitched Burlingame, beating the Panthers 13-5 to capture the CCS Region I title.

The Colts, now 18-7 over-all this season, travel to San Jose's PAL Stadium next Friday evening to play the Region IV champion in the CCS semifinals.

If El Camino — gunning for its third CCS title in five seasons — wins Friday, the Colts play for all the marbles Saturday night against the winner of Friday's other semifinal between the champions from regions II and III.

Leonard started off in strong fashion, striking out Burlingame's first two hitters and retiring the Panthers in order in the top of the first inning. He ran into trouble in almost every inning thereafter, but his teammates made his job much easier by scoring four runs in the bottom of the first, giving him a nice cushion to work with.

The game began as though El Camino were going to blow Burlingame off the field — something the Colts didn't really do until the bottom of the sixth. Right from the start in the bottom of the first, the Panthers were in trouble — as much because of their own poor defense as because of El Camino's resounding hitting.

Colt centerfielder Jeff Pettigrew led off by drawing a walk; the ball skidded away from Burlingame catcher Greg Barton on the fourth ball, and when Barton had trouble retrieving it, Pettigrew sped all the way to second. Then Al Hoffer hit a ground ball to shortstop; Burlingame fielded the ball, but threw it away at first, allowing Pettigrew to score and Hoffer to take second.

Colt catcher Merlin Nelson then tagged a ground-rule double to deep left field, with the ball bouncing over the fence on one hop and Hoffer scoring on the play. After a groundout, Ruzek gave Camino a 4-0 lead by lining a tremendous 450-foot home run well over the left field hedges.

Burlingame — which had rallied to edge Terra Nova 4-3 Tuesday in the other Region I semifinal game — battled back. The Panthers scored a single run in the second when Kevin Cullen drew a bases-loaded walk — but Burlingame then left the bases loaded when Leonard retired the Panthers' next two hitters, and that hurt Burlingame.

A two-out throwing error by the Panthers' third-baseman led to three unearned Colt runs in the bottom of the second, and that didn't help Burlingame either.

In the top of the sixth, however, the Panthers — who had score twice in the fourth to trim Camino's advantage to 7-3 — made the game very interesting. After Cullen had flied out to center, the tiring Leonard lost Eric Sommer and Panther leadoff hitter Al Byer to walks. Enter Ruzek.

But Ruzek, pitching under the lights for the first time, had control problems for a few moments.

Ruzek started off in less than successful fashion, walking both Paul Beauvais and Ralph Akchurin to force Sommer across for 7-4. Then Barton blooped a well-placed single into short center, bringing Byer home for 7-5. With the bases still loaded and only one man out, the Panthers still had one heckuva shot at it.

But Barton's run-scoring hit was to mark the final moment of glory in what was a season overflowing with success and ecstatic moments for Burlingame.

Ruzek got the Panthers' next hitter to strike out swinging on a 1-2 slider. With Kevin Walsh (who suffered his first pitching loss after eight straight wins) at bat, a pitch got away from Nelson behind the plate, and Beauvais tried to score from third.

But the hustling Nelson retrieved the ball quickly and fired it to Ruzek, who had alertly run in to cover the plate. Ruzek tagged Beauvais out on a close play, and the Panthers' promising rally had ended with a fizzle.

At the halfway point of the North Peninsula League's round-robin season, El Camino stood at 5-2. The Colts' overall record had dipped to 9-6.

"At that point, I told the kids we had 1,000 miles to go if we wanted to get very far," said Zuardo.

So what turned everything around for the Colts?

"Fear is what turned it around for us — fear that we might not get a chance to show how great a team we are," said Pettigrew. "Our team unity helped us, too. We were having trouble finding a solid number two starter, and Andy rose to the occasion for us.

"When we lost to Serramonte (1-0, in the NPL playoffs a week ago Tuesday), a lot of the guys were down. But I figured we might still get the wild card (at-large) berth, and we did. Our practices have been dynamite, and you can see our enthusiasm when we take infield. We're as strong as ever right now."

"We're just the Colts," interjected Humphrey — who, along with Ruzek, had three RBI's.

Nowadays, that counts for quite a lot.

Kindergarten teachers prove new concept

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

Even in this day of prevalent acronymns and capital letter terminology, the mention of NDN probably will draw blank looks outside a group of educators. Even within the profession, not all know about the National Diffusion Network, whose complete title is Division of Educational Replicating, United States Office of Education.

In simpler terms, NDN's title fits its goal: "To enable widespread adoption of proven programs rather than simply disseminating information regarding these programs."

Three South San Francisco kindergarten teachers, Jeanne Stout, Judith Brown, and Gretchen Ross, know all about NDN. In 1975, their reading readiness program for kindergarteners, "Alphaphonics," was validated by HEW, cited by the National Right to Read Project as "exemplary" and adopted into NDN. In the years since, the three teachers have traveled widely all over the U.S., explaining and demonstrating their techniques. So successful have they been in "selling" the concept that now Alphaphonics is used in kindergartens in 45 states, the District of Columbia and a school for military dependents in Germany.

What makes Alphaphonics different from other reading readiness programs, some of them with materials costing far more than the $80 for a complete Alphaphonics kit? Probably the central ingredient is the prospect for success it offers every child.

"Our philosophy is to do everything possible to help every child succeed," says co-developer Stout, who adds that the program is a "100 percent success for all children without learning problems." In fact, Alphaphonics is a boon to educators who used to have to wait for a child to get well into the work of first grade for firm indications that his learning ability was unusual. Now, if a pupil doesn't seem to learn via the Alphaphonics method, earlier diagnosis is possible of what may be seeing, hearing or learning problems and corrective and/or remedial work can be begun as much as a year earlier in the child's school life.

Stout, Brown, and Ross agree that Alphaphonics' value in building a positive attitude toward academic learning is perhaps even more important than the success it offers a child in reading and related skills. School becomes a place children look forward to eagerly and enjoy being in daily, partially because "Astro," a soft-body, huggable, hand-made doll, is there to greet them and offer them surprises from his "bag."

Certainly, Astro, the brainchild of teacher Ross, is a gimmick, but a loveable, very human and humane one with which a small child can identify readily. Although he comes from "outer space," Astro can be happy or sad, pleased or puzzled, and he even can make mistakes, something small children do often.

Astro and his "helper," the classroom teacher, teach one letter of the alphabet each week. In his special bag the children find their classwork and special treats each morning, items limited only by the teacher's time and ingenuity.

Designed to be a multi-sensory rather than a multi-media process, Astro's treats include things to see, hear, taste, smell and touch as well as to read, write, and talk about. Although guidelines exist for the inexperienced, teachers are encouraged to make Astro their own, using him, his bag, and the printed materials provided to fit best the needs of their kindergarteners. Stout points out that the material suggests a very structured beginning, but after that the teacher can use her personal creativity to create excitement and variety in the content. Stout mentions, too, that there is a sixth sense involved for every teacher, and this becomes a real sense of "touching children's lives."

How did Alphaphonics begin? In 1967, Stout, Brown, and Ross were teaching kindergarten at Ponderosa School. Lenore Jacobson was principal. Seeking a problem to define and measure for her doctoral dissertation, Jacobson began to search through the records of Ponderosa students. A pattern emerged; not one of failure exactly, but one of limited success. Many students were not achieving anywhere close to where ability tests said they could and should.

Jacobson decided on a radical experiment. She raised her teachers' expectations for their students and found, before the year was out, that this higher level of adult expectation not only was met but exceeded by many of the students. Jacobson collected her findings and published them as "Pygmalion in the Classroom."

The following year, Stout, Brown, and Ross developed "Alphaphonics," with its built-in success factor for every child. Jacobson, who had encouraged them to pilot it, offered it for wider discussion in the education community via a TV series produced by the California Instructional Television Consortium, entitled "What Do You Expect?" The series, meant to be taken as a college course for credit by classroom teachers, uses the Alphaphonics manual as a text and is designed to alert parents and teachers to the "facts" about reading success and its relationship to adult expectations.

Success in getting others to adopt Alphaphonics did not come quickly. Although Stout, Brown, Ross, and Jacobson knew the method worked and worked well, it wasn't until it was accepted as an NDN exemplary project that it really caught on.

Now, much of the director's time is spent traveling. Ross was director at first; Brown is director this year; Stout will take over in the fall. As they travel from state to state, they talk about not only their own program but also about two other reading-related ones which are part of NDN. Whenever they sell, they train teachers to use the method, then return in six months to evaluate progress. NDN hopes by the end of the year to have an additional 10 regional training teachers trained, cutting down some of the local trio's traveling time. All three will be delighted. Right now, long hours are spent in airplanes, in hotel rooms, and rental cars as well as in conference and teaching quarters.

But even the tedium has unexpected reward. Stout tells about how on a recent flight she found herself sitting next to a small boy, just about kindergarten age. On a hunch, she asked him if there was anyone special in his classroom. He launched happily into Astro's song and began to bombard her with information about his very favorite person. Few program developers get a greater immediate reward.

Headquarters for Alphaphonics, in what appears to be a converted supply closet, is next door to the kindergarten room at Ponderosa School, where the idea took shape a dozen years ago. Shelf space overflows with Alphaphonics materials. Brown, when

THE DIET CORNER

Good morning, good cooks.

It's not too light, not too heavy and oh, so luscious, this Chocolate Mousse Pie. It has the elegance of a rich French dessert that is yours to create with a few basic ingredients streamlined for today's busy homemaker.

The secret of this smooth, creamy dessert starts with non-dairy whipped topping. It is folded gently into the rich chocolate mixture, spooned into the baked pie shell, and chilled until firm. It's almost as simple as that, and while you're at it, you might make two pies and freeze one for future use.

CHOCOLATE MOUSSE PIE

½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
2 eggs
1 container (4 ounces) frozen topping, thawed
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled

Cream ½ cup butter. Gradually add ¾ cup sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Add two squares chocolate. Add two eggs, one at a time, beating at high speed for five minutes after each addition. Fold in one container whipped topping. Spoon into pie shell. Chill until firm, about two hours; or freeze until firm, about four hours. Garnish with additional whipped topping, if desired.

What does food mean to you?

More than you imagine when you read the question. Food is part of our lives, not a thing apart.

Ask yourself:

- Is food a comfort?
- Is food a reward?
- Is food a substitute?
- Is food a weapon?
- Is food social?
- What purpose other than nutrition, does food play in your day?

Maybe you aren't aware of what food means to you. It's fun to find out, and not at all hard to do.

Close your eyes. Relax. Let your hands and arms go limp. Think about a happy time. What was it, where were you, what were you doing, was food involved?

Think about an unhappy time. Where were you, what happened to you, and what was your response?

Think about the last time you were disappointed — a letter did not arrive, the phone didn't ring, you didn't receive the praise you craved? Did you eat?

Think about your spouse if you're married, your best friend or your family if you're not. If someone's concerned about your weight, have you used this concern lately to gain the upper hand?

Picture your favorite social occason. There you are, where you want to be. Are you eating?

You can switch off that inner television set now and come back to reality. Reality is what food means to you, the way you use it and abuse it.

A good way to use food would be to turn it into a delicious dessert. And the magic is to use this recipe.

she's in town, and part-time secretary Barbara Lara make do with the limited work space.

That Alphaphonics has changed its developers' lives goes without saying. Ross, the "organizer," intends to complete work for an administrative credential, something she had not considered before. Brown, the "quiet artist," exhibits self-assurance and self-confidence which belie the fact that she became a program developer after only one year in the classroom. And ebullient "public relations spokesperson" Stout, with whom I taught at Southwood when it was an elementary school and Nardy Mallarino was its principal, is a renewed woman.

The success of Alphaphonics, coming hard on the heels of Stout's widowhood, gave her a new purpose. And that purpose, for all three women, has made the beginning of school life success-oriented for many young children who now experience success through Alphaphonics daily.

Everyone's caught up, up in rocketry

By JANET PARKER

Every space program has its mishaps.

The students at George Hall School in San Mateo got a first-hand glimpse of the ups — and downs — of launching rockets and missiles.

And, much like the technicians and engineers of the command center at Cape Kennedy — with perhaps a bit less sophistication — they felt the thrill of the countdown and watching the projectile boost itself into the blinding sun.

"Five...four...three...two...one," about 70 students cheered in unison as the "rocket" burst from its launching pad and flew about 1,000 feet into the air.

It plunged back toward earth as chief engineer Norman Wood made a mad dash, catching it in his hands, before it crash-landed.

Teacher Gail Turner of Belmont, who builds and flies real airplanes, introduced rocketry into her kindergarten-first grade class this year to spark interest in science.

It just so happened that the parents of two children in Ms. Turner's class build and launch their own rockets, ranging in length from about six inches to more than six feet.

They insist it's really not such an odd hobby.

"My husband bought a kit for our son for Christmas," Lynne Lahr said. "We made the mistake of telling him he could get real engines and launch it."

Of course, the curious youngster — probably propelled by the likes of "Star Wars" and "Star Trek" — wanted to be first on his block with a rocket that really flew.

"Then we found out it's really a lot of fun to do it," Mrs. Lahr said.

They trekked to Redwood Shores near an old radio station transmitter on the tidal flats, and set up their portable launching pad.

"The only thing you have to be careful of is landing it in the water," Mrs. Lahr said. The model rocket, constructed of a heavy cardboard and balsa wood, could disintegrate.

"Anytime you can get a dad and his son doing something together, it's great," said Pauline Wood, who was lured into the rocketry hobby through the Lahrs.

While they've never seen any other rocketeers in the 150 or so launchings they've conducted since December, they've seen "evidence" of other rockets such as abandoned engines and rocket pieces, Mrs. Lahr related.

Ms. Turner's students spent several weeks building their own parachutes and, finally, their own rocket. It was scheduled for liftoff at 11 a.m. of a recent Friday in the George Hall playground.

The Lahrs and the Woods displayed a potpourri of rocket models-ranging from the simple "Mosquito" to a complex "Orbital Transport," a two-foot-long machine with a piggybacking "parasite" rocket that separates from its carrier and glides to the earth alone.

The rocketeers explained that they've had their share of aborted missions.

There was, Wood said, the rocket that "did a ballistic thing on my station wagon."

And, there was the "Big Bertha" model they launched one windy day with a smaller engine than usual in consideration of the weather.

The missile was thrust about 50 feet into the air and then suddenly turned over, heading straight toward the ground, sans parachute. They thought for a moment, Mrs. Lahr said, it was going to burrow its way straight to China.

Fortunately, she said, the parachute opened just before the rocket hit the ground and it escaped a smash landing.

"The first misfire we had, we all just stood there for about two minutes, afraid to go near it, thinking that's when it would decide to go off," she added.

The first time they launched a rocket, Mrs. Lahr laughed, she stood with her fingers in her ears, waiting for the big bang. It didn't come.

At best, the sound from the launching pad resembles a "whoosh," like a refrigerator slamming shut.

The first rocket off the launching pad at George Hall School was the model built by Ms. Turner's class. It ascended with ease and then plummeted to the playground, where Wood caught it in his hands.

"They forgot to attach the body to the parachute," Mrs. Lahr, said, explaining the failure.

The kids didn't care. They cheered and applauded anyway.

Workshop needs bikes

Does anyone have a suitably located vacant garage or work area where patients recovering from mental illness can set up a bicycle workshop?

And does anyone have old bike parts that aren't needed any more?

The Mental Health Association wants to know because it plans to help establish such a workshop, where participants can learn to repair and clean bikes and earn a bike in the process.

The acquisition of a bicycle, it is believed, may help provide participants with needed physical exercise and recreational experiences.

The garage or workshop space should be centrally located for the county, somewhere between San Mateo and Redwood City.

Donations of tools, bicycles and parts, in any condition, are requested. Those who can provide space or donate supplies are asked to telephone the Mental Health Association offices in Burlingame.

Miss Belmont pageant and dinner set

The Belmont Chamber of Commerce will combine its annual installation dinner with the "Miss Belmont" contest on June 2 at the Holiday Inn near Marine World-Africa U.S.A.

The judging for the pageant — with eight Belmont women competing — will be held at poolside at 4:30 p.m.

The installation of the 1979-80 chamber officers will be held at 7 p.m. in the hotel restaurant. Dinner is $13 per person and the public is welcome.

The new chamber leaders will include President Ann Hammer, First Vice President Dick Tyrell, Second Vice President Bea Sitkoff and Third Vice President Mike Rodman.

The new officers will be introduced by outgoing President Brian Laheney.

Soroptimist scholarships

Three local students have won scholarship awards from Soroptimist International of Burlingame-San Mateo.

James Ken of San Mateo High School won the group's Youth Citizenship Award.

Rachelle Pierson of College of San Mateo won the Ada Beveridge Award.

Virginia Ryan of College of San Mateo won the Ruth H. Weston Award.
